Consciousness may be more than just a product of brain activity, according to Dr. Jan Holden, a professor in NT's department of Counseling Development and Higher Education. Holden is involved with a study on near-death experiences at the University of Virginia, which started last March ... With this in mind, Holden designed a method of proving this phenomenon. A laptop computer that opens flat hangs on the ceiling with the screen facing away from the floor. A series of animations runs once the computer starts up. Holden's husband, a computer software engineer, developed the program. With this study, Holden hopes to provide support for the theory that consciousness is more than a product of brain activity. "If consciousness is a product of the brain, then when the brain dies, consciousness dies. If the brain is like a cell phone in the field of consciousness, then when the brain dies, consciousness continues," she said. .... [\[Read more\]](#)

The inspiration for NBC's new drama "Medium" is participating in a University of Virginia study that seeks to prove whether the living can talk to the dead. "Medium" tells the real-life story of the Alison Dubois, an Arizona mother of three who claims to see dead people and helps police solve murder cases ... "We know it can be done. There is a history of mediums who worked under these conditions in the '20s and '30s and did quite well," Kelly said. "It's a matter of identifying someone who can do well under these conditions." This is the first study that UVA has conducted studies with mediums in 30 years. The Division of Personality Studies typically researches reincarnation, near-death experiences, death bed visions and out-of-body experiences.... Abstract: The spatial unity of self and body is challenged by various philosophical considerations and several phenomena, perhaps most notoriously the "out-of-body experience" (OBE) during which one's visual perspective and one's self are experienced to have departed from their habitual position within one's body. Although researchers started examining isolated aspects of the self, the neurocognitive processes of OBEs have not been investigated experimentally to further our understanding of the self. With the use of evoked potential mapping, we show the selective activation of the temporoparietal junction (TPJ) at 320-400 ms after stimulus onset when healthy volunteers imagined themselves in the position and visual perspective that generally are reported by people experiencing spontaneous OBEs. .... If you have evidence of the existence of a spiritual world, a world of help and guidance and sympathy, then you can hold to it in spite of every denial of the materialists, who can only base their denial on the absence of any sensory stimulus to their material organism. Such a world may exist all around us, and yet can only be spiritually discerned. The faculty of discernment does exist in some people, and the positive evidence outweighs a wilderness of negation from people whose perceptions are limited to the bodily senses. .... The paramedics called RVMC and told the hospital to assemble the cardiology team. Gross and a team of assistants were waiting for Day when the ambulance arrived. "He looked dead," Gross recalled. Twenty-one minutes after Day rolled into the hospital, Gross had opened an artery in his leg, inserted a wire in the artery, guided it to Day's damaged heart and installed a stent to repair the damaged coronary artery. QUESTION: "Have you come across any near-death experiencers who were blind or deaf?" --Jeffrey.

DR. ATWATER'S REPLY: I encountered some adult near-death experiencers who were blind, most of them since birth, in my research, but no children who were. Of the adult experiencers, all of them claimed to see and clearly during the near-death episode. What amazed me was that those who were blind since birth - never saw - recognized colors instantly and knew what color was which just by the site of it, and used the right words to describe what they saw - even if it was to describe people who entered their hospital room, people they had never before touched, heard, or were around ... (3) Books on the NDE

At the NDE Online Store you can find NDE products such as books, documentaries, movies, music, magazines, and journals. More NDE media products are coming.

My Descent into Death: A Second Chance at Life by Howard Storm

This is one of the greatest NDE stories ever told. It was first released on July 10, 2000, and now a second edition will be released this February 15th. Not since Betty Eadie's "Embraced by the Light" has a NDE story been so utterly different from most others or more compelling. Perhaps no one but Howard Storm has fallen to such great depths, then risen to such great heights, and lived to tell about it. Rather than being welcomed by light beings immediately after death, Howard was tortured by monstrous beings of depravity. But a simple childhood prayer allowed him to be rescued by Jesus himself and be taken to heaven. As it was with Betty Eadie, Howard's story is a great message of hope and a great message of redemption. Anne Rice, who wrote the Foreword of Howard's book, has this to say about it: "This is a book you deserve to read to cover to cover, and pass on to others. This is a book you will quote in your daily conversation. Storm was meant to write it and we were meant to read it." Anne Rice read the manuscript and it was so overwhelming, she volunteered to provide the foreword. [\[Read more\]](#)

Mysteries of Consciousness by David D. Welsher MD

Are you the sum aggregate of an epiphenomenon of random firing neurons that simply no longer exists after the complex system dies or are you a spirit that temporarily resides in this "brain machine" that is liberated upon the death of this complex neurological system? These two philosophies are not only basic, they are opposite and opposing. Both can not be true. Either the mind is a hoax between two nothingness or it is a complex and dynamic coexistence between the physical and spiritual worlds. This book examines this question like no other because of the unique background of the author. Not only a neurologist which gives him a position of some authority on this subject but he is also an engineer which contribute a degree of logic to the equation. [\[Read more\]](#)

Tranceformers: Shamans of the 21st Century (Ebook) by John Jay Harper, Ph.D.

John Jay Harper is a clinical hypnotist in Spokane, Washington who has written an ebook that integrates the NDE within the framework of both science and religion; specifically it is a theory on the operation of cosmic consciousness itself. His passion for learning about the hereafter was inspired by a 1988 after death visitation with a deceased colleague - an experience which changed him from skeptic to mystic. It was this close encounter and the myriad of questions it generated which relentlessly drove him to solve the riddle of life after death and publish his findings. His book has recently been released as an ebook which is the only version that reflects Earth Changes predictions and includes overall major textual improvements. His ebook is available for immediate purchase and download at his website.

Andrew Weil's experiences during this time laid the foundation for his mission to restore the connection between medicine and spirituality. From Science to God: A Physicist's Journey into the Mystery of Consciousness by Peter Russell

Peter Russell went from being a strict atheist and scientist to discovering a profound personal synthesis of the mystical and the scientific. The transition is the basis of his book which he blends physics, psychology, and philosophy to reach a new worldview in which consciousness is a fundamental quality of creation. Russell shows how all the ingredients for this worldview are in place: it remains only to put the pieces together and explore the new picture of reality that emerges. Integrating a deep knowledge of science with his own experiences of meditation, Russell arrives at a universe similar to that described by many mystics - one in which the inner and outer worlds no longer conflict. The bridge between them, he shows, is light, and this book invites readers to cross that bridge to find new meaning in God and a deeper significance in spiritual practice. [\[Read more\]](#)

Consciousness: A Very Short Introduction by Susan Blackmore

The famous NDE skeptic's latest book challenges the reader to reconsider key concepts such as personality, free will, and the soul. How can a physical brain create our experience of the world? What creates our identity? Do we really have free will? Could consciousness itself be an illusion? Exciting new developments in brain science are opened up to the debate on these issues. Blackmore combines the perspectives of philosophy, psychology, and neuroscience - and serves as a launch pad for further exploration of this "last great mystery of science." [\[Read more\]](#)

Recommended NDE Books

On Life After Death by Elizabeth Kubler-Ross

This is the world-famous best-seller by the woman popularized the field of this study as a subject for general social commentary.

Life After Life by Raymond Moody

Dr. Moody investigated more than 100 case studies of people who experienced a NDE and in 1975 published this best-seller.

Mindsight by Kenneth Ring, et al.

Dr. Ring and associates investigated the astonishing claim that blind persons including those blind from birth, can actually "see" during a NDE. They present their findings in scrupulous detail and include fascinating case histories.

The New Children and Near Death Experiences by P.M.H. Atwater

Dr. Atwater provides compelling evidence for the existence of a generation of children who experienced a NDE and represent the spiritual evolution of the human race. Atwater shows that understanding the NDEs of children can help us prepare for a quantum leap in the evolution of human unity.

Where I Live by Melvin Morse

Dr. Morse presents the scientific evidence of life after death which is being overlooked by skeptics such as the existence of a location in our brains that communicates with God and the universe.
